ROAD HOUSES PROBLEM OF COUNTY DADS

Discuss Situation at First Session of March Meet

Chairman Seth Anderson of the Lee county board of supervisors today presented a subject to the members which developed a startling situation with regard to road houses operating in Lee county. He told the board members that at a meeting of the county liquor commission, licenses for road houses were exacted for a three months' period, beginning the first of the year, to permit the board to consider license fees as well as rules and regulation changes to be made by resolution. In the ensuing discussion it developed that four road houses were operating without licenses at present and had been so doing since the first of the year.

"Send the sheriff out and close them up," Supervisor Knetsch added in the discussion. "A lot of them are selling liquor on beer licenses," Chairman Anderson replied, then told the board that a $500 license fee had been suggested in a conference with the sheriff and state's attorney. At that point in the discussion Chairman Anderson called upon State's Attorney Edward Jones and Deputy Sheriff Gilbert Finch to address the board on the subject.

The state's attorney said "the road houses are difficult to control and added that some had remained open until 3, 4 and 5:30 in the morning and were not complying with the present regulations as provided by resolution adopted by the board. Sheriff Miller is of the opinion that less trouble would be experienced if the road houses were permitted to sell liquor by the drink. At present, liquor is being taken to the road houses where it is opened and consumed, which is legal. The county is receiving no revenue and it is my opinion that if liquor is sold by the drink that there would be less drinking."

For Two Licenses "As the law stands, it is necessary to have five complaints before an action can be taken to close these places, and I am of the opinion that at least one proprietor should have his license revoked. Through an appropriation made by this board for investigation of these places, four were found to be selling liquor, but without the owner's consent or knowledge, which halted prosecution in the court. At present the county is realizing a $60 license which might be increased to $350 or $500. The board would be required to issue a beer license for the small dealer who cannot pay the higher license, for they cannot be legislated out of business."

"The present law is not right for closing these places. It is a new experience. I would suggest that in issuing a liquor license the provision should be made for regulation of these places and then a failure to abide by these provisions would result in revocation." This was the substance of the remarks of the state's attorney and Chief Deputy Finch was called upon to express his opinion.

It is an impossibility at present to determine the violator, he stated in his talk to the board, and then followed with a suggestion that the board start by defining what constitutes a road house, this to be done by resolution, then to establish restrictions and to set up a reasonable license fee.

"Let them sell anything from candy to dynamite," the chief deputy said.

Series of Attacks on Detroit Women Climaxed in Girl's Death

Detroit, March 8—(AP)—A sudden series of attacks on women, climaxed by the brutal murder of 17-year-old Bernice Onisko in suburban Hamtramck, spurred a police roundup of suspicious characters today. Questioning of 20 men, however, yielded authorities no clues to the girl's death, discovered yesterday morning when her bruised body was found in a back yard near her home. Police awaited an autopsy to determine the cause of death. Miss Onisko, one of five children in a widow's family, apparently was seized and criminally attacked, Police Capt. John Sikorski said, upon her way home from church. She was the daughter of Mrs. Cecilia Onisko. The assailant, Sikorski said, had stuffed the girl's scarf into her mouth and knotted her coat belt around her neck. Family members said they had last seen her early Saturday night. Five attacks or attempted assaults on women had been reported to police Friday night.

Near Passing

Detroit, March 8—(AP)—Father Charles E. Coughlin, in his weekly radio address yesterday, said the United States Constitution faces the possibility, because of President Roosevelt's court reorganization proposals, of "being relegated to museums."

"Grant it that the President has a burning desire to do something for the exploited labor classes, and that the Supreme Court has blocked it," Father Coughlin said, "the Supreme Court, however, remains the guardian of the Constitution," with only "we the people" having the privilege of amending it.

"We are very near a national crisis—the passing of a nation," Father Coughlin said.

DELINQUENT TAX COLLECTIONS UP TO ATTY. JONES

Lee Co. Supervisors Give Him Power To Do As He Pleases

State's Attorney Edward A. Jones appeared before the Lee county board of supervisors when that body convened in the first session of the regular March meeting this morning and reported on progress his office has made in the collection of delinquent taxes for the years 1933-34. Saturday was the final date for the payment of delinquent taxes and approximately $3,459 was paid into the county treasury, leaving a balance of about $6,000 to be collected.

More than 2,100 notices were mailed out to delinquent taxpayers of the county from the state's attorney's office and about 1,500 remain delinquent, the county prosecutor told the board. At the board meeting last September, the state's attorney was authorized to proceed with the collection of the delinquent taxes for 1933-34 when an outside auditing firm proposed to the county board it would collect these taxes for a consideration of 25 per cent of the total amount collected. In his talk before the board this morning State's Attorney Jones told the supervisors that it had cost approximately 10.5 in making the collections he has made.

1,500 Suits Possible

The amount collected represented the larger sums, he told the board, and asked the authorization of the body in proceeding against the remaining delinquents. He estimated that about 1,500 individual suits would be filed in the county court in the form of actions in debt against the delinquents, and this would represent an average cost of $5 against each individual. The court costs, the state's attorney, stated, would be assessed against the delinquent.

One township in the county, State's Attorney Jones stated, had but one delinquent, the remainder having several. His investigation of the delinquent tax list, the board was informed, developed the fact that many of those appearing on the list had moved from the county, some others were on relief and there were many whose delinquent tax would not warrant the starting of court action. After a brief discussion, the state's attorney was authorized to use his own discretion in proceeding against the delinquents.

First Payment

Markle, Ind., Mar. 8—(AP)—Dale Gusman, rural mail carrier, had to carry his $233 down payment on a new automobile to the agency in a small tub and a basket. It—the payment—weighed 152 pounds. It was all in pennies.

GORGES GIVE WAY; FLOOD DANGER PAST

Steady Recession of Rock River Noted Over Week End

Danger of a repetition of flood conditions in Dixon and vicinity is believed to have passed with the clearing of Rock river of ice over the week end, and a gradual drop in the stage of water. The ice gorge north of the Nelson bridge broke up Saturday afternoon and fields of ice passed down the river from the vicinity of Grand Detour. Since Saturday evening the heavy gorges at Castle Rock and Oregon broke and passed down the river without damage. A drop of .7 of a foot since 7 o'clock this morning was noted at the L. N. U. company hydro plant at 1 o'clock. Huge fields of ice passed over the dam Saturday evening after the Nelson gorge had broken and there was a marked drop in the stage of water. The high school athletic field which has been flooded for several days was a sea of mud and many waded about in hip boots gathering small fish which had not returned to the main stream with the falling stage of water. Hundreds of cars were along the highways bordering the river throughout Sunday. At the L. N. U. Co. offices this afternoon it was stated that a heavy gorge at Como had also broken and it was believed that all danger of another flood in this vicinity had passed.

Pecatonica Rose

Freeport, Ill., March 8—(AP)—Week-end floods along the Pecatonica river—the second in two weeks—drove lowland residents from their homes and closed three factories today.

The water did not rise above the all-time high mark of 1929, but forced the Stover Engine company, the Lena Casket company and the Inter-City Paper Box company to move machinery and supplies. Dynamiting of ice jams on the Pecatonica's Wisconsin tributaries swelled the parent stream, already gorged with heavy rain, Saturday. Winslow, Ill., a village of 350, was inundated partially yesterday, with a foot or more of water standing in the business district.

The river here started to fall shortly before last midnight and by daybreak had dropped several inches.

Dixonites Injured in Auto Accident

Lawrence Seloover and William Maddison of this city were removed to the Sterling hospital in an ambulance Sunday afternoon, following an automobile accident at Hartshorn's corners, two miles south of Nelson. Paul Nolan was reported to have been a passenger in the car, which failed to negotiate a turn at the end of the road, but he escaped uninjured. Maddison was treated for head lacerations at the Sterling hospital and dismissed and Seloover was under observation until this morning for cuts and bruises, when he was released.

Spring, Easter Fashions To Be Given Preview at Theater; Window Displays

Smart New Styles Comprise Stocks Dixon Stores

Spring is just around the corner, so pack your haughty mood, put your air of languid elegance in storage and get a fresh start of the glorious season because spring and Easter will arrive together this month.

Fashions have never been more lovely for my lady. Dress for yourself and to please yourself, newest prints, crisp, dark sheers, furred and unfurred suits, soft mannish tailored gowns, colorful spring coats and gloves are important this spring. Millinery! What a story bonnets tell this spring; off the face hats, berets, sailors, flower trimmed toques and smart turbans. Accent your costume with the right bag—bright colors are leading either in top-handles or pouch styles. All this and more is Dixon merchants' contribution to Spring-Easter fashions this week.

Officially opening the spring season with a well earned leadership for smart new styles, Dixon is outdoing itself this spring by presenting a big Style Preview at the Dixon Theatre next Thursday night, and a city-wide Spring Opening for Friday and Saturday. Merchants' display windows will be unveiled Thursday evening at 6:30, presenting the latest in spring apparels.

Monstrous Wave Rolls Over Rex; Kills 2 Persons

Genoa, Italy, March 8—(AP)—American passengers on the storm-tossed luxury liner Rex told in graphic detail today how a monstrous wave sent the 10,622 ton liner reeling off Gibraltar, killing two persons and injuring scores.

Some reports said at least two Americans were hurt during the crossing, described as one of the roughest ever made in a modern liner.

Scores of passengers were injured when the huge wave, described as "a mountain of water," broke over the vessel Thursday. The list of injured for the crossing totalled more than 70.

A first class passenger of Italian nationality and a member of the crew died later from injuries. The huge wave was the greatest of a series so high they swept the famed Lido deck of the former blue ribbon liner.

German Ambassador Snubs Invitation To LaGuardia Talk

Washington, March 8—(AP)—The Washington Post said today the German ambassador and his staff have declined an invitation to attend a Bronson Cutting memorial lecture tonight by Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York. "Oh, yes, I remember Herr Herbert Blankenhorn, German embassy attaché, 'but, of course, we will not attend.' That was decided when we saw Mayor LaGuardia's name on the program."

The invitation was issued before LaGuardia suggested last week that a statue of Adolf Hitler be included in a "chamber of horrors" at the 1939 New York world's fair. The German government protested, and the American state department expressed regret.

Aledo Junior High School Pupil Sues Principal, $10,000

Aledo, Ill., March 8—(AP)—Edward Workman, a junior high school pupil, filed suit today asking $10,000 damages against P. E. Gleize, principal of the school, alleging two paddlings by him were grounds for such action.

The suit, brought in the boy's name by his father, Robert Workman, was preceded by a warrant charging the principal with assault; this action also being based on the paddling.

The assault case has been set for hearing tomorrow before a jury. Another damage suit, seeking recovery $15 for torn clothing and $200 for doctor bills, was filed against the principal. The paddlings took place Feb. 25, the suit claimed.

Earthquakes

San Francisco, March 8—(AP)—Residents of the San Francisco Bay region were shaken from sleep by an earthquake at 2:32 A. M. today, which knocked articles from selves in east bay cities.

Police at Albany and the sheriff's office in Martinez said the movement there was the sharpest they had felt since the 1906 San Francisco disaster.

Hercules Logan, deputy in the sheriff's office at Martinez, reported the quake shook the granite building "like it was nothing." He heard of no damage, however.

Thousands were awakened by the shock which the coast guard station at Fort Funston described as "sharp."

RURAL BANKERS' CAMPAIGN OFF TO FINE START

Drive for Location of Home Office in Dixon Progresses

A meeting of the citizens' committee named by Mayor W. V. Stohover to assist in the campaign to bring the Home Office of the Rural Bankers Life Insurance Co. to Dixon was held during a luncheon at the Hotel Natchua this noon, at which time it was stated that, although the effort has hardly started officially, success is indicated, as the first $100,000 in applications is in sight. At this noon's meeting final plans to carry the campaign to fruition were made.

Several of the oldest and largest producing representatives of the Rural Bankers Life arrived in Dixon Sunday and today to assist in securing the number of applications desired to secure the removal of the company's home office to this city. These men, all supervisors of the company, are exceptional writers of insurance and will assist the citizens committee in its efforts. They include:

Here to Assist
J. Willard Andrews of Sterling, supervisor for Whiteside, Ogle and Rock Island counties; H. H. Prescott of Freeport, supervisors for Stephenson, and Jo Daviess counties; R. G. Paulin of Freeport, supervisor for Stephenson and Ogle counties; J. T. Harley of Joliet, supervisor for Will and Grundy counties; Edgar MacLennan of Sterling, county manager for Whiteside county; and Rev. John Mullen of Western Springs, one of the supervisors for Cook county.

E. C. Kennedy, well-known Dixon business man, and one of the oldest writers with the company, also supervisor of Lee county, will assist in supervising and directing and directing the campaign.

13-Year-Old Bride Of One Month Being Sought By Police

Baltimore, March 8—(AP)—Police searched today for a 13-year-old child bride, who was quoted by friends as asking before she disappeared if anything could "force a wife to live with her husband."

Joseph Falice, 22-year old quarry worker, reported last night his bride of less than a month, Mrs. Eleanor Falice, 13, had not been seen since Saturday.

Aged Native of Amboy is Called

(Telegraph Special Service)
Amboy, Mar. 8—Mrs. Anna Smith, who was born in Amboy about 80 years ago, passed away Saturday evening at 6:45 o'clock at the Amboy hospital. Funeral services will be held at St. Patrick's Catholic church Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock with burial in St. Patrick's cemetery.

Engineer's Story Proven True By Police to Satisfy His Wife

Cincinnati, March 8—(AP)—A story in a detective magazine reviewing a strange case in which Gilliland in 1921 falsely was accused at Granite City, Ill., of the murder of his wife. At that time he was not married and the woman to whom he supposedly was wedded was alive, but Gilliland said, the magazine, relating the story, erroneously called "Mrs. Gilliland" the woman who had been identified mistakenly as the murder victim.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

United Automobile Workers of America called strikes in all major Chrysler Motor Company Detroit plants today after refusal of the corporation to recognize the Committee for Industrial Organization affiliate as sole bargaining agent for employees.

Use of the strike as a bargaining weapon widened again on the nation's industrial fronts as sitdowns were called in the Hudson Motors, Packard Motor Car Co., and four factories of the General Motors Company.

Chrysler employs 65,000 workers, Hudson 10,000.

C. I. O. leaders and officials of General Motors worked to reach final agreement on moot points that resulted in recent widespread strikes, which were halted during negotiations.

John L. Lewis' CIO group also threatened to call out 7,000 shoe workers in Chicago in a move to obtain recognition of their group and wage increases.

Opposing forces in the battle for control of organized labor gathered in Washington today to intensify unionization campaigns.

Their deliberations presaged a widening in the bitter rift between the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Enrollment of some 1,250,000 workers of the far-flung textile industry under the C. I. O. banner was regarded the next goal of John L. Lewis' group, whose leaders already claim approximately 2,000,000 members in several industries.

Everywhere in the capital presided William Green of the A. F. of L. and 50 seasoned organizers mapped plans for enlisting the support of workers in the agricultural, gasoline station, aluminum, cereal and cement industries.

C. I. O. Claims

C. I. O. leaders claimed several victories over the weekend, including:

1. The defection of the Aluminum Workers Union's largest unit, at the New Kensington, Pa., plant of the Aluminum Company of America, from the A. F. of L. ranks. Recognition of a C. I. O. affiliate as bargaining agency for its members employed at the Braeburn Al-

Effort to Escape Chair is Failure

Chicago, March 8—(AP)—Joseph Schuster, 30, who pleaded guilty to charges of murdering Policeman Arthur Sullivan and threw himself on the mercy of the court, was sentenced today to die in the electric chair April 16 by Criminal Court Judge John J. Lupe.

Court room attaches said Schuster, a paroled convict apparently insisted on pleading guilty in the hope such a procedure would influence the court to spare him the extreme penalty.

Sullivan was shot in the head Jan. 14 shortly after he had halted Schuster to question him about a robbery. A witness said the parolee drew his weapon without warning and fired at the officer from behind.

Road Houses—

uty told the board in his explanation, then added:

Trouble Starts Late "Our trouble generally starts after 1 o'clock in the morning, and at present you are asking the sheriff and state's attorney offices to police the county after the towns are closed. Any resolution that you may pass is not going to please all of these places and some will be hurt. I am opposed to the quarterly license fee and believe that not less than a six months' license should be granted. The quarterly license permits outsiders to come into the county and operate one of these places for a short time and it is these places that cause the trouble."

Supervisor L. D. Hemenway of Alto was brief in his answer to the road house problem as presented to the board in stating:

"You can always vote a township dry if you want to."

Chairman Anderson urged the board members to consider both regulations and a suitable license fee to be charged road houses, and to be prepared to formulate a new and more drastic control at this meeting of the board.

Justin Becker of May township, who was appointed to fill the vacancy caused through the resignation of William Avery, was officially seated as a member of the board at the meeting of this morning's session.

Applications of Otto Ege of Viola township, Christian Ullrich of Amboy for blind pensions and a request for the reconsideration of the application of Julia Dedman of Dixon, which was presented at the December meeting, were referred to the judiciary committee for investigation and a report at this meeting.

New York, March 8.—(AP)—A lady from Vassar College has figured out that, by and large, city folk—leastwise those in the states of New York and Illinois—pay more taxes than their country cousins.

Using those two states for her researches, Dr. Mabel Newmeyer of the Poughkeepsie, N. Y., women's school, reported today that a typical city dweller here with a $2000 income pays taxes of $270 to $334 annually. A farmer with a like income, in four cases out of five, paid $105 to $198.

On the same basis, the city dweller in Illinois pays $279 to $359 against $163 to $197 for the farmer.

New York was selected for study as a state relying heavily on the income tax for revenue, Illinois as one relying on the sales tax.

Methodist Church Missionary Group Fellowship Tea

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist church will sponsor a "Fellowship Tea" to be held in the church parlors Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The guest speaker of the afternoon will be Mrs. Ralph E. Pierce, wife of superintendent of the Joliet-Dixon district and a reception will be tendered Mrs. Pierce from 2:30 to 3:00 o'clock. Mrs. W. E. Whitson, president of the local society urges all members to attend and all women of the church and congregation are cordially invited to be present.

Mrs. Pierce is an eloquent and interesting speaker, is possessed of a charming personality and it is expected many ladies of the church will avail themselves of this opportunity of greeting her.

OUR GANG CLUB—

One of the Our Gang Club's most enjoyable meetings of the year was that at which Garrett Kreger was host. The meeting was called to order by the president, Dorothy Tourtellot. After the business meeting, everyone played buncos. First prizes were awarded to Helen Travis and Robert Tourtellot. Consolation favors went to Bertha Stahl and Orville Kaebhaug. Peggy Rhodes and Orville Kaebhaug were guests.

After delicious refreshments were served and enjoyed everyone danced. The club's popular crooner, Robert Tourtellot, led the gang singing and playing the season's popular hit tunes, after which diversion everyone thanked the host for a delightful evening and went home.

Dorothy Tourtellot will entertain Our Gang with a dance on Thursday.

The Thursday Reading Circle will meet at 2 P. M. Thursday with Mrs. Herbert Scott and Mrs. Ida Morgan, 118 E. Boyd street.

New Books Ready for Patrons Dixon Public Library

Romance of Lloyd's—Worsley. The dramatic and colorful account of an organization that made chance its business and thereby created an institution which played a big part in the development of the British empire.

Something of Myself—Kipling. When Kipling was seventy he sat down to write this short autobiography. It is the inner life lying behind the public figure of an enormously successful author.

Bridal Canopy—Agnon. Agnon ranks as the foremost novelist in modern Jewish letters. This novel tells the story of Reb Yudel, a Jewish scholar who set out to travel in the lands of the Kaiser to seek bridegrooms for his three daughters and thus to fulfill the sacred commandment of bringing them under the bridal canopy.

Invasion—Van der Meer. A long novel describing the invasion of Belgium in 1914. Without any scenes of actual fighting, it gives an aspect of wartime which no other novelist has pictured. In the lives of these non-combatants we watch a whole community under the fierce pressure of the invader.

Escape to the Tropics—Holdridge. Has the teeth to hold the most capricious interest, and when a book bites a reviewer, that's really news.

A World I Never Made—Farrell. A novel of life among the poorer-class Irish in Chicago. The chief character is timid Danny O'Neil who has been taken to his grandmother's home because his own parents are too poor to bring him up properly.

Bushman's Honeymoon—Sayers. A well known writer of mystery stories pens a love story with detective interruptions.

Golden Fleece—Harding. Author of "Phantom Crown" has written this book about Franz Joseph and Elizabeth of Austria. She says "the life of dynasts, like that of guppy families, becomes the object of intensive scrutiny." The book is not too accurate historically but is very readable.

Theatre—Maughan. The book is well named. Quite apart from the fact that its principal characters are actors, it has the speed, smoothness, and entertainment of an expert theatre piece. It is said to be "first-class hammock reading for people with high I. Q's."

Married People—Rinehart. There is plenty of comedy and considerable pity, and not quite tragedy in these short stories. They can be read easily and with that gleam of gossip's delight which comes from recognizing people or from looking through windows.

Of Mice and Men—Steinbeck.

To Repeat Mt. Morris Minstrels

The minstrel show, presented recently most successfully by members of the Mt. Morris Eastern Star, will be repeated under the auspices of the Leaf River P. T. A. at Leaf River Wednesday evening. The members of the cast pictured above, left to right are: Pauline Yoe, Grace Ritson, Ruth Toms, Marylena Van Stone, Marion Borklund, Virgil Turner, Jane Locke, Elsie Priller, Nellie Bishop, Kathleen Peugh, Ida Horton, Ruth Felker, Avis Blakely, Wilma Colvin, Mary Yoder. The three Pavlovas who appeared in "The Broken Pitcher" are Pauline Yoe, Grace Ritson and Elsie Priller.

One of the features of the presentation is an interlude of dancing presented by a group of Mount Morris pupils of Miss Marguerite Neumeister of Rockford. Little Misses Charlotte Zastrow and Millicent Lamm appear in two numbers. Their "We Waltz" in ballet costume is quite in contrast with their rhythmic interpretation of "Mickey Mouse's Birthday Party."

Elaine Arbogast displays charm and delicacy in her toe number danced to the "Schon Rosmarin" of Kreisler.

Miss Arbogast also displays her versatility by joining with Jimmy Asp, another talented dancer, in two tap routines dances to "The Bugle Call Rag" and "A Fine Romance."

The interlude is brought to a close by a soft shoe number, "A Star Fell Out of Heaven," danced by Betty Jean Koonitz and Jimmy Asp in amusing picaninny costumes.

"It should please everybody because it has every element of good story telling, and it must be remembered that most of our successful novels of recent years, with any substance of art to them, have succeeded by violating most of the canons of the story teller's art in order to emphasize ideology, the stream of consciousness, or behaviorism." It is also recommended to weary readers of omnibus-length books. This one has 186 pages.

The Nile—Emil Ludwig. Ludwig gathers together the fabulously rich incidents of the river; human pygmies; vast swamps that almost strangle the river; the derelicts who killed Gordon at Khartoum; the incredible life of luxury lived by the Pharaohs; camel-riding Bedouins; the ceremony at the annual flood celebrated in the Delta for 4000 years. The story represents almost a thousand miles of Africa and thousands of years of history.

Beloved Friend—Bowen. That the wife of a nobleman, beautiful and wealthy—the mother of eleven children—for years lavished her attention and practically devoted her existence to Tchakowsky is well known. But why she did this—why during the thirteen years of their friendship they took extreme measures to meet—why he alternated between heights of exaltation and the depths of despair—is an enigma. The publishers are offering a grand piano for the best letter on the relationship of these two.

Death Watch—Carr. Mystery story.

Westerns
Outlaw Range—Webb.
Proud Sheriff—Rhodes.
Romances
Sunrise—Grace Lutz.
As Long As I Live—Loring.

DAILY HEALTH

By Dr. Iago Gladston WARTS

Job had boils and other skin ailments, but warts he had none. Seemingly these were too trivial to try his soul. And so they are, in the main, though a wart on the sole may prove very painful.

There are several varieties of warts, classified according to size, shape and location. All warts are in substance a local overgrowth of the layers of the skin. The cause is believed to be a filterable virus. Warts sometimes disappear spontaneously. This explains, at least in part, the common faith in fantastic remedies, such as spells, incantations and rituals. Commonly, however, warts not only persist, but may even spread and multiply.

When they are troublesome and disfiguring, they require medical treatment. The simplest way to be rid of a wart is to have it cut off, the base being scraped out with a suitable instrument, perhaps a sharp spoon curette. This of course should be done by a physician.

Small warts may sometimes be permanently removed by sandpapering them down to where "it begins to hurt." Here, too, antiseptics must be observed. The wart

ILLINOIS LABOR SEEKING ACTION BY LEGISLATURE

Has Numerous Bills Before Law Makers in Present Session

Springfield, Ill., March 8—(AP)—With the exception of unemployment insurance, most of the major demands in the legislative program of the Illinois Federation of Labor today awaited action of the General Assembly.

Labor leaders said they would seek this week to speed up action on the bills, which are all still held in committees of both houses.

Federation sponsored bills already introduced include those providing:

Eight-hour day for women, payment of prevailing wage rates in contracts for public works, five-day work week, outlawing labor of espionage, changes in the workmen's compensation act, curbing of the courts in issuing injunctions in labor disputes and a full crew for railroad workers.

Federation Claims
Reuben G. Soderstrom of Streator, federation president, asserting that a five-day work week law would put 400,000 persons in Illinois to work, said:

"It is the only sensible solution to the unemployment problem. At the present time much is being said about ending unemployment but very little is being done."

Besides the unemployment insurance proposal, the federation also plans to introduce bills providing for outlawing of homework in industry, old age pensions of not less than $1 a day and modification of present restrictions in the old age assistance act and authority for the state department of labor to engage in a wage collection service.

Other Bills Proposed
Other labor bills also held in committees include those prohibiting discrimination by employers against any employee because of age and the filing of a suit under the wage assignment law before 30 days and more than 50 days after the serving of the demand, and providing for a women's and children's employment office in the department of labor.

The house will inaugurate a four-day work week tonight to speed action on pending legislation, meeting to transact routine business at 8 o'clock. The senate will meet Tuesday afternoon.

Governor Horner will submit his tentative biennial budget to the legislature tomorrow, with listed needs expected to exceed anticipated revenue by $18,000,000.

Week-end Reports on Business Better

Washington, March 8—(AP)—Week-end reports of several government agencies reflected improvement in general business conditions.

The Federal Reserve Board said 1936 profits of member banks, totaling about $448,000,000, were more than double the 1935 profits of $212,000,000.

The Farm Credit Administration reported its agencies for the first time since the depression, were selling more farms than they were acquiring through failure of farmers to repay federal loans.

The Home Owners Loan Corporation said collections were improved; that it appeared many borrowers who once were thought hopelessly in arrears would be able to pay up. The treasury forecast 1936 income tax returns would disclose the largest number of million-dollar incomes since 1931.

Illinois Briefs

Aurora—(AP)—Funeral services for Eugene Smith, 62, former manager of the Aurora Beacon before it became the Beacon-News, will be held tomorrow at Kaneville, Ill. Smith died at the home of a sister.

Peoria—(AP)—Two federal agents were expected to arrive in Peoria shortly to question Elmer Jones, a vagrant, about the kidnapping and slaying of 10-year-old Charles Mattson at Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 27. Police Chief Fred Nussbaum said Jones bore close resemblance to a composite picture of the Mattson kidnaper.

Kankakee—(AP)—The body of James Crews, 65, was recovered from the Kankakee river. Crews drowned Jan. 5 when his automobile plunged into the river from a dead end street.

Springfield—(AP)—Funeral services for William J. Lowry, 43, of Springfield Superintendent of Schools, will be held at Kingfisher, Okla., his birthplace. He died of pneumonia in New Orleans where he was stricken during a meeting of the National Education Association.

Chicago—(AP)—Police recovered the bodies of Robert Janda, 12, and Melvin Thorstenson, 11, from Columbus Park lagoon into which they fell through thin ice Saturday.

During the second week of work after the strike, the assembly lines of General Motors turned out about 89,000 passenger cars, as compared with 74,145 for the week before.

Traffic Crashes Over Week-End in State Fatal to 12

Chicago, March 8—(AP)—At least 12 persons, six of them downstate, died over the week end in Illinois automobile accidents.

At Alton Norma Slanker, 19, and her 4-year-old cousin, Marcelle Woosley, of Carrollton, were fatally injured by a skidding car driven, police said, by James Dunn.

A short time later James Strong, 74, also of Alton, was struck by a car reported at the sheriff's office to have been driven by Melvin E. Lynch, Shipman. Lynch said he did not see the aged man in time to stop.

Mary Fasbender, Abington, died at Galesburg today, second victim of a crash Saturday which caused the death of E. J. Ehrenhart, also of Abington. John McDonald, Orville, O., owner of a truck involved in the accident, was held for the coroner's inquest, as was Clarence Weiling, the truck driver.

Harley Simones, aged resident of the Warren county home near Monmouth, was run down while walking along a highway. Howard Lee, Jr., Roseville, drove the death car.

Among the Chicago victims was Robert Westlund, 8, struck by a hit-and-run driver.

AWAITS INVESTIGATION

Springfield, Ill., March 8—(AP)—States Attorney William P. Roberts of Springfield said today his request for an investigation for possible irregularities in the parole board would be held up "pending completion of Governor Horner's investigation." The state prison investigation commission is expected to report to the governor within a few weeks.

HE HASN'T HEARD
"But now I beseech you to consider what it means to make this charge of 'packing the court,'" beseeches our own James Hamilton Lewis, United States senator, at a democratic victory dinner in Chicago. "Is it possible that an American at a time like this, when all governments are under suspicion and laying open to the charge of slaying democracy, destroying republicanism, robbing mankind of the honor of name in government, and leaving themselves open to the clear application of 'master,' 'dictator,' and 'tyrant,'—is this the time when an American, beholding his government, the one republican form free from such guilt and the one institution where there is not one measure of law or practice in commerce and finance that can be pointed as an example of dictatorship or tyranny—shall we herald to all the world that we Americans charge as accusation against the president of the United States that he is of such despicable character that to give victory to personal pride, he would use his office to debase the high tribunal of justice by corrupting the weak and contemptible figure, wherever he exists, who would agree to prostitute his office in consideration for the appointment to it? Is there such a mortal in America? If there be, we cry out, with Othello, 'Let's put in every honest hand a whip to lash the rascals from the land!' Where is the man willing to shove down his country to such low depths that it is to be held up before all civilization as the one land where the office elected by the votes and voice of a free people was a man who could degrade his existence and that of his ancestors, taint his children and disgrace the people of his whole nation by adopting to himself the approbrium of one who could defile the sacred tribunal, corrupt its judges, mortify the nation, and crumble to ashes its standing before the world—all to serve himself in the gratification of a personal victory by the inconstant and fleeting thing of some measure of judicial opinion on government."

"Is it possible that to serve our political opposition or personal resentment we could hold our nation before the earth as so contemptible and its people so degraded as to have elected a president who in judgment was so benighted, in character so corrupt that he could do such a thing as is charged now, to the disgrace of his office and to the destruction of the republic?"

Offhand, we should say that at least 90 percent of the adult male population of the country believes he would. They are divided between those who are fearful that he will and those who are hopeful that he will do it. The hopeful ones are basing their hope on the theory that by such "packing of the court" they will somehow reap some pecuniary gain.

We wonder if the senator has read his mail. But, if we are not competent to speak, let us call Attorney General Cummings, who spoke over the radio as an advocate of the scheme.

"What is the real objection?" Cummings asks. "It is simply this: Those who want to preserve the status quo want to retain on the bench judges who may be relied upon to veto progressive measures."

Had the attorney general said no more, it would be fair to draw the conclusion that proponents advocate a change in judges, a packing of the court, to bring about different decisions. But we do not need to draw any conclusions. Let the attorney general, the president's spokesman, say it for himself:

"If the constitution is to remain a living document and the law is to serve the needs of a vital and growing nation, it is essential that new blood be infused into our judiciary."

There, senator, is the answer to your main question, as to whether or not the president would do such a thing after the fashion you have described above.

If the attorney general is not an authoritative spokesman, then let the president speak for himself. He was speaking while Lewis was speaking. Lewis was making a terrible indictment of a man who would pack the court. The president was pleading guilty to it.

If the proposal is not that the president shall appoint judges who will decide the cases as the president wants them decided, then a great mass of supporters of the proposal are being deceived.

THE COMPANY THEY KEEP
Propagandists writing on behalf of the loyalist faction in the Spanish civil war have issued a little booklet telling their side of the case. They point out with a great show of reasonableness that they are defending democracy as opposed to dictatorship and monarchialism. The rebels in Spain represent two factions in themselves; those who wish to restore the monarchy under Alfonso, and those who would set up a fascist dictatorship of the Mussolini or Hitler type.

We are supposed to believe, then, that the loyalists are seeking to establish and maintain a representative democracy such as exists in the United States, and on that basis the loyalists make their plea for moral and financial support.

It is unfortunate that the facts tend to disprove what the loyalists contend. If the loyalists are to be known by the company they keep, then we must believe they are communists, for they have the active moral support of the communist government of Russia. They have been supplied by food from Russia and they have operated in a military way with tanks imported from Russia. They have the active moral support of the so-called popular front government of France, which is headed by a right-wing communist premier and a coalition of socialists and communists in the legislature. Soldiers of the loyalist forces sing communist songs and give the clenched-fist salute of communism. None of this has been denied by the loyalists. If the loyalists intended to set up a free, representative government such as we have in the United States, Moscow would not be supporting them, because Moscow would like nothing better than to see the United States form of government collapse.

Fascist rebels of Spain have had precious little sympathy from the United States because their principles are not American principles. The loyalists will get little public sympathy here, either, until they learn to keep better company.

REMINGTON'S INISCENCES

Walter Winchell, New York newspaper columnist and radio commentator, credits me with being the reporter who discovered Rasputin for the press and who wrote the first stories concerning the so-called "Mad Monk" to be published in English and American newspapers.

As a result of the publicity given me in this connection many persons have asked me to tell the story of how I came to meet Rasputin. This is the story, in brief. And permit me to say it is not intended as a biography of Rasputin. Enough bunk has been written about the man already, and perhaps it should be known that it was not his reputed mystic powers that obtained for him the position of adviser to the czar.

Rasputin was given his job through the influence of the Grand Duke Nicholas when the latter was commander of the Imperial Guard and of the St. Petersburg military district. The grand duke and Minister of War Suchoininoff were engaged in a quarrel over the military administration of the district and the grand duke, knowing the weakness of Czar Nicholas, found a place at Tsarskoe Selo for Rasputin as a sort of spiritual adviser to the czar. The grand duke expected also that Rasputin would induce the czar to follow his advice rather than that of the minister of war in all matters pertaining to the Russian army.

Rasputin was, in fact, a half-literate Siberian peasant whose debaucheries certainly did not equip him to give spiritual advice to anyone, let alone the czar of all the Russians. He called himself "Staretz," which means literally "old man," a term applied at the time to all the praying vagabonds and sinless but soulless mendicants who inundated Holy Russia.

His pull with the Czarina Alexandra was due to the claim he made that the little heir Alexis could be saved only by his prayers, and that the moment he ceased praying the terrorists would get little Alexis.

Unshorn, unwashed, garbed in a peasant's armbark and greased topboots, Rasputin could be seen a few years before the World War in the smartest saloons of St. Petersburg. He preached that only young and pretty women could be saved by himself and his adherents were many. Then began the inevitable revelations. The name Rasputin is derived from the Russian word "rasputni," which means debauched, and the revelations showed that the old man's name fitted him.

When publicity brought some of his escapades into the limelight and his affairs with married women were made the subject of debate in the Duma many of the saloons were closed to Rasputin, but he kept his position at court. This was due to benevolent Grand Duke Nicholas, who always maintained there some one who would influence in his favor weak-minded Nicholas II.

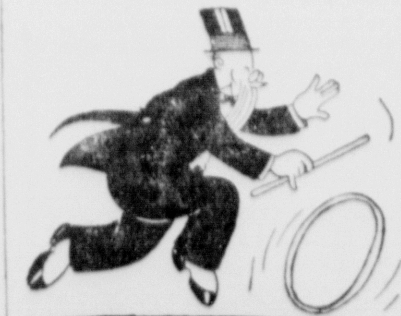

I met Rasputin in St. Petersburg just a few days after Grand Duke Nicholas had succeeded in establishing the bagat as his personal emissary at the palace of the czar. I learned about this move before it actually had taken place although I was hundreds of miles from the Russian capital when I received my first tip concerning it.

I had been sent to the Caucasus by a London newspaper to report a general maneuver of the Russian army in that district. The Russian minister of war presumably was in charge of this great maneuver, but the influence of the grand duke was seen in frequent changes in orders and in what appeared to be confusion among the military leaders in direct charge of the affair.

I learned later this was the result of the quarrel between the grand duke and the minister of war, and that the latter in order to please the czar had sort of abandoned the Russian army and was spending much of his time with the Potemkin of Boy Scouts, then the latest plaything of the Russian ruler. This, of course, left Grand Duke Nicholas to run the imperial army. I may add that he ran it into the ground, and although hailed as a great military leader at the outset of the World War, he was largely responsible for the sorry showing made by the Russians.

While reporting the maneuvers I met at general headquarters one day a little man called Papashenka, or "Little Papa," who was an honest, genuinely pious man. He had a great reputation among the St. Petersburg poor, and I arranged for an interview.

Papashenka told me he was just completing a pilgrimage to Jeru-

Do You Know Illinois?

By EDWARD J. HUGHES, Secretary of State

Q. With what other Western hero was "Wild Bill" Hickok associated in a theatrical venture?
A. "Buffalo Bill" Cody. Cody, Hickok and "Texas Jack" Omahundro opened in Chicago in 1873 at Nixon's hall in a play called "Scouts of the Prairie."
Q. Where is Lorado Taft's famous statue "The Madonna of the Trail"?
A. In Vandalia, Illinois, directly in front of the old Vandalia State House.
Q. Who erected this statue?
A. The Daughters of the American Revolution, and dedicated it to the mothers of the covered wagon days.
Q. Were the remains of Lincoln viewed at the time of the 1901 interment?
A. Yes. Only a few people attended as all was done in comparative secrecy and newspaper men were excluded. The casket was opened and according to statements of those present the body was in perfect preservation, natural save for a darkening of the complexion.
Q. When was the body of Lincoln finally interred after the rebuilding of the monument in 1900?
A. May 26, 1901.
Q. What is the average yearly rainfall in Illinois?
A. Forty inches in the southern part and 34 inches in the northern part.
Q. Who is the "Keeper of the Great Seal of Illinois?"
A. The secretary of state is the keeper of the great seal of Illinois.
Q. How much did the Illinois legislature appropriate in the last regular session for the use of the libraries of Illinois.
A. $600,000.
Q. When did Jacksonville secure its public school system?
A. In 1855.
Q. What distinction is claimed by Bath, Illinois?
A. Bath claims the distinction of being one of the few Illinois towns that was originally laid out by Abraham Lincoln. Lincoln platted Bath, November 1, 1836.

LABOR'S LEAGUE FAVORS PACKING SUPREME COURT

Plans to Apply Its Pressure on Both Houses Congress

Washington, March 8.—(AP)—Labor's Non-Partisan League set out today to bring pressure on Congress in favor of the Roosevelt plan to revamp the Supreme Court.

"The president has chosen this path—the only path—toward his humanitarian objectives," President George L. Berry told the league's national convention.

"It is up to those who supported him for re-election last fall to follow him now."

The meeting of the league, established last year to campaign for Roosevelt's re-election, opened a week which partisans of both sides predicted would bring debate on the Court program to a new peak.

League officials said every state and 2,000,000 union members were represented by delegates. Some farm organizations were invited to send observers.

Opposing Factions

The meeting brought together prominent members of the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization, despite the unrelenting struggle between those groups for domination of the organized labor field.

Ray Edmundson, Illinois president of the United Mine Workers of America, said he would attend.

John L. Lewis, heading the CIO, will join Senator LaFollette (P-Wis.) when the latter gives an address tonight. The program will be broadcast at 10 P. M. C. S. T.

The league's activities attracted attention at the capitol in view of the political possibilities. Senator Burk (D-Nebr.), opposing the president or the Court issue, has predicted a party realignment unless the program is defeated.

Berry expressed the belief today that Congress would enact the legislation. Taking notice of new party talk, he said in an interview that the league "is not engaged in forming a political party."

Always With "Liberals"

"But we propose to be prepared," he said, "to meet any political development between now and 1940. We will be found supporting the liberal cause then as we did in 1936."

Welcoming the delegates, Berry said it was of prime importance to prevent another depression.

"I doubt that our form of government could survive another catastrophe like such as began in 1929," he said.

"The most important task ahead is development of consuming power. We condemn payment of wages which prevent citizens from living in respectability. We condemn child labor and an unreasonably long work-week. We condemn unscrupulous trade practices."

Attributing the depression to such conditions, he said "an adequate fortification" against them must be erected.

"And the only way to erect it is to enact the president's Supreme Court plan into law—now!" he declared.

LaFollette urged the league to campaign aggressively in behalf of Roosevelt's Court proposal.

"In this coming legislative struggle," he said, "the strength of popular Democratic government in America will once more be pitted against the organized force of reaction."

About 600 labor leaders assembled for the convention from every state except Arkansas and Arizona.

To See President

Berry and a committee from the league arranged to visit Roosevelt at the White House shortly after noon. Just before their visit ten minutes were set aside for 16 representatives of farm organizations to discuss the court plan with the chief executive.

Another speaker at the league's convention, Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward P. McGrady, asserted that the Supreme Court had nullified the will of the people.

"If the country is to advance," he said, "something must be done about this small group of men on the Court who seized greater power than the president and Congress."

In his address, LaFollette asserted that the same groups which fought Roosevelt for re-election were against him now, although "repudiated by an overwhelming majority last November."

"They seek to frustrate the popular will by raising false issues designed to rally support behind the majority of the Supreme Court dominated by the outworn economic beliefs of a past generation. This majority by a tortured construction of the constitution has impaired the legislative power of Congress."

A bill introduced to Canada's House of Commons would increase the permanent air force from 147 officers and 933 airmen to 198 officers and 1498 airmen. With the same percentage of increase in the non-permanent air force, the total strength will be 331 officers and 2444 airmen.

A plane being designed for the U. S. army will have a 24-cylinder engine and 1000 horsepower. Mounted on the nose is a rapid-fire cannon that shoots through the propeller. The engine will probably weigh about 1100 pounds.

D. A. R. Asks Citizens To Oppose Change in High Court

Mrs. Vinton Earl Sisson, national chairman of the D. A. R. committee on National Defense, through Patriotic Education, has addressed the following letter to all members of that great society, and has asked local citizens to write Senators James Hamilton Lewis and William Dieterich, and Congressmen Leo Allen, E. V. Champion and Lewis M. Long, all at Washington:

The proposed Supreme Court change now before Congress is, indeed, the most important issue of the day and as such cannot be ignored by patriotic citizens.

President Roosevelt has asked for the opinion of the American people on his proposal to increase the Supreme Court from nine to a possible fifteen members. We must consider the immediate effect of such a change, the place of the Supreme Court in the American system of government for one hundred and fifty years, and the potential danger this republic the American form of the establishment of such a precedent.

Ever since the establishment of this Republic the American form of government has existed happily and successfully under a check and balance system. Through the separation of the three branches of government, Executive, Legislative and Judicial, each has carried on the function of that department with the limitations and duties of the other two. Because no one of these has been granted a concentration of power over the others, but has instead been subject to a check on its activities by the other two, the balance of power has been carefully preserved, and the American system has been able to give to the American people more freedom than has been granted to any other people in the world. By granting to the executive branch of the government under the authority not fewer than six members of the judicial branch, there is grave danger that there will be no longer exist the check and balance system which historians and statesmen have considered the most important feature of the American system of government, and the very key to its existence as a democracy in a republic.

It is premature to assume that President Roosevelt would abuse this power and pack the Supreme Court with members who could be counted upon to declare constitutional such measures as he has proposed or may propose. Nor can we know whether the Senate would ratify such appointments. The point is clear, however, that no such temptation should be placed before an executive whether present, or future, that could have the effect of going contrary to the system so definitely outlined in the Constitution, and acceptable thus far to the majority of the American people.

The traditions regarding our Supreme Court must not be lightly discarded. The Judiciary branch of the Federal Government has ever been above suspicion on has been entirely free from political entanglements. Its members have been appointed for their lifetime, not for their political opinions, but because of their unusual experience, and their service over a period of years.

Appointed by one executive of definite political allegiance, they have served through the administrations of others of differing political faiths. Their decisions have been based upon their collective interpretation of the laws of the land as written in the Constitution. These interpretations over one hundred and fifty years have liberalized the Constitution and made it flexible to the needs of a changing time.

Should anything occur to lessen the regard which the American people have for the Supreme Court, to lessen the respect which the Court now merits, and has always merited, an irreparable damage will have been done to our system of government. The way will have been paved for some drastic change toward some ISM other than Americanism, and it will be an uphill struggle to regain what has been lost—lost because of the indifference or ignorance of the people themselves!

A Supreme Court of fifteen members would undoubtedly prove unwieldy. Many authorities believe that nine members are too many and they contend that a smaller court would be able to serve the people better because the deliberations would be less cumbersome. Each of the justices must personally read the case record, and there could be no shortening of time in this obligation. The docket of the Supreme Court is kept up to date contrary to assertions that seem to be wide spread. The corps of assistants under each justice is exceptionally efficient.

If you believe that the proposed increase in the present Supreme Court personnel is unwise, even dangerous in its portent, will you not make your views known to the President in accordance with his expressed desire to know how the people feel about this matter?

Write or wire to Hon. Halton W. Summers, Chairman of House Judiciary Committee, Hon. Henry P. Ashurst, Chairman of Senate Judiciary Committee, your Senators in Congress, your Representatives in Congress and your Congressmen-at-Large.

SAN ROMANI MAY BE CUNNINGHAM'S MILE SUCCESSOR

Noses Out Veteran Kansan In Famed Banker's Mile

Chicago, March 8.—(AP)—Every time he starts, it looks more and more as though little Archie San Romani is a cinch to succeed Glenn Cunningham as king of American mile-runners.

The latest demonstration by the frail-appearing youngster from Kansas State Teachers college at Emporia came Saturday night and was nothing less than a surprising triumph over Cunningham, the old master himself, in the Banker's Mile.

He gave a capacity Chicago crowd of 2000 its biggest foot-racing thrill since Joie Ray's day.

The time, 4 minutes, 21 seconds, was far from spectacular, but it was excellent for the tour over a slow, wet dirt track in the international amphitheater.

After Blaine Ridgetout of the North Texas Teachers had set a crazy pace for nearly four laps, San Romani, Cunningham and slender Gene Venzke moved out in a body.

Glenn Opens Up
Cunningham opened up at the start of the final lap and had moved up to the other Kansan's shoulder with a half lap to go. He got no farther for San Romani let out another peg, and finished two yards in front, with Venzke about five yards back of Cunningham and Ridgetout far in the luck.

Don Lash and his Indiana teammates, Tommy Deckard and Jimmy Smith, finished in that order in the two mile, with the other Ridgetout twin, Wayne, a not-very-threatening fourth. Lash's time, 9 minutes, 24.3 seconds, was far over his world mark of 8:58.

Bobby Grieve of Illinois whipped Eulace Peacock, Temple's Negro dash ace, at 40 and 60 yards, but was disqualified in the 50-yard number.

Sam Allen of Oklahoma Baptist, had little trouble in defeating a pair of Illinois hurdlers, Dick Brunton and Jack Robinson, at 50, 60 and 65 yards.

JAPAN LESSENS ENCROACHMENT UPON CHINESE

Tokyo, March 8.—(AP)—Japan disavowed any intention of territorial aggression in China today and pledged herself to a new policy built on a keystone of "equality" in dealing with her great continental neighbor.

Foreign Minister Naotake Sato launched Japan on the "New Deal" for China to the cheers of a parliament stirred by his announcement

Japan, he declared in a maiden speech on his policy, must abandon her superiority complex to readjust her long-strained relations with China.

On that principle of "a fresh start on the basis of equality," he asserted he would build the policy of Japan's foreign office which he has just taken over.

Newspapers throughout the empire displayed Sato's speech under scare headlines as heralding a turning point in Sino-Japanese relations.

"Japan has no territorial ambitions in China," Sato stressed, labeling as "imaginary" any fear Japan intended to "go beyond the great wall and extend its influence to central or South China."

"Japan respects Chinese interests and wishes to shake hands with them economically," he declared. "That is the only way Japan can expand there."

HOLC JOB MADE EASIER BY GOOD BUSINESS GAIN

Has Completed Task Of Lending, Must Now Collect

Washington, March 8.—(AP)—The general upswing in business is making easier the job of Uncle Sam's giant mortgage collection agency—the Home Owners Loan Corporation, created during the depression to help finance 1,000,000 American homes.

The HOLC loaned slightly more than $3,000,000,000 at 5 per cent interest to about 1,000,000 persons.

That phase of its work was completed last June. Since then it has had the harder task of collecting the loans, most of them amortized over 15 years.

Charles A. Jones, general manager, said today improved economic conditions made it appear a large percentage of those borrowers who at one time seemed hopelessly in arrears would be able to clear up their past-due obligations.

Round Figures Given
He announced these round figures on the standing of the 1,000,000 borrowers:

More than 452,000 are in good standing as to both principal and interest.

More than 95,000 additional borrowers are less than three months in arrears.

Of those remaining, more than 260,000 not only are meeting monthly bills, but also are reducing their arrearages.

Figures presented to Congress showed that to the first of this year HOLC had collected $191,000,000 in principal and $282,000,000 in interest on its loans.

Congressional hearings disclosed that up to last December HOLC had taken over 17,800 properties and authorized foreclosure on 70,000.

A large crowd, estimated at about 525, attended the turkey dinner given at the Catholic hall Sunday, in honor of St. Patrick's day which falls during Passion week this year.

The tables were attractively decorated in honor of the occasion with green top hats each having on it two white pipe, and long slender green candles placed in white vases around which white flowers were set. A green pear, salad with cottage cheese and a piece of parsley carried out the colored scheme.

Officials, turning their study toward an equalization of the tax burden on American and foreign investors, said investors in this country pay income and capital gains taxes.

Foreigners may purchase securities here, they explained, and profit from American recovery by paying only a ten per cent levy against their collections of dividends and interest.

This tax may be increased or some other method may be devised to level up the tax load on foreigners with that on American investors.

RURAL BANKERS LIFE INSURANCE PRINCIPLES

SHEPPARD HOMAN, maker of the American Experience Table of Mortality, always a staunch advocate of pure life insurance, term insurance, in an address to the Actuarial Society of America in 1891, said:

"The investment part of any life insurance contract has no necessary connection with the insurance part . . . Life Insurance will not fulfill its true mission until the investment as well as the insurance portions are treated upon correct principles."

ROGER BABSON, statistician, economist and publisher of investment forecasts and advice, in his Barometer Letter of February 27, 1923, said:

"Buy life insurance or automobile insurance, but think twice before buying it as an investment."

ROBERT T. GREEN, noted Independent Actuary and Counselor on Life Insurance, said:

"Is life insurance, measured by the amount of premiums you pay per $1,000? No! The more you pay the less you get. The 'Cash Value Racket' cannot stand the acid test."

The men who organized the Rural Bankers Life Insurance Company were and are firm believers in pure protection life insurance. They believed then and they believe now that the insuring public is entitled to the opportunity to purchase life insurance at cost without the expensive frills that have been tacked on the American life insurance during the past century, and particularly during the last forty years.

An interview with a Rural Bankers' Life representative will prove to be very profitable to you.

AMBOY BEATS SCRAPPY LEE CENTER FIVE

Lee Center Weakens In Final Period, Leads At Half

Coch L. E. Traugher's Amboy Scarlets, balked in the semi-finals by Prophetstown again found themselves all tangled up with a never-say-die Lee Center team but managed to win a 32 to 25 victory in the consolation final of the regional tournament here Saturday night.

When the game began it looked as though Amboy might be clearly superior to Lee Center when Lynch and Plate sank in a couple of close-in shots, and Powers and Covill took advantage of a couple of free chances to give the Scarlets a 6-0 lead before the quarter was half over. Lee Center gathered itself together at this point and began to make the game interesting. Sharp-shooting Foster, Lee Center's main cog in the forward position tossed in a couple of baskets in quick succession and at the end of the first stanza Amboy was ahead only 6 to 5.

Vilagets Sprung Surprise
Lee Center turned on a full head of steam and drove through Amboy for seven more points before the Scarlets realized what was happening as the second frame opened. With Lee Center leading 12 to 6, Plate, Covill and Lynch combined to start Amboy on a counter-offensive to tie the score at 14-14 but as the half ended Foster flung a long arching shot from beyond the foul line was fouled by Stiel and made his free throw good, giving the tiny village school a 15-14 half time lead.

The game continued a nip and tuck fashion throughout the third quarter, the lead changing hands three times, but Amboy on Powers long arching shot at the end of the quarter again held the upper hand 22 to 21. In the fourth quarter Amboy thoroughly outclassed Lee Center 10 to 3 to give the game.

Covill was high point man for the Scarlets. He rang up thirteen points during the game, to lead Amboy's attack. In the other tournament games he had been practically devoid of shots. Foster was Lee Center's ace with fourteen points.

Blackhawks Have Only One Chance Of Playoff Berth

New York, March 8.—(AP)—There's just one chance left that the six teams now occupying the upper rungs of the National Hockey league ladder won't be in the Stanley Cup playoffs at the finish.

The New York Americans finally were counted out Saturday night and the Chicago Blackhawks all but took the final blow when they played a 2-2 draw with Toronto's Maple Leafs last night, as a result of that draw and New York Rangers 1-0 defeat by the Boston Bruins, Chicago has only one slim hope left.

If the Hawks can win all their remaining five games and the Rangers lose five straight, they'll be tied in points. But in that case the Hawks will have one more victory and will get the call. That was the way the Rangers went out last season.

Those two important games last night also sent Boston three points up on the Rangers in their second-place race in the American division and tossed Toronto and the Montreal Maroons into a tie for second in the International section.

The three main objects of gliders are: distance, altitude, and duration of flight.

Mt. Morris, Rochelle Go To Sectional At Freeport

Chicago, March 8.—(AP)—The rocky trail to the Illinois state high school basketball championship led today toward sectional tournaments, with 120 prep teams ready to begin play in those tests March 10-13.

Upsets were numerous in the windup of regional tournaments Saturday night, although losers, under rules which send both winners and the teams they whipped up to the sectionals, have a chance to advance toward the finals set for March 18-20 at the University of Illinois.

Hillsboro, the favorite, dropped a 24 to 17 decision to Benid. Olney was expected to defeat Palestine, but lost by the low score of 8 to 6. Bloomington was expected to get by University high, but bowed 27 to 16, and Canton took Lewistown into camp 23 to 15.

Mt. Pulaski's powerful team however continued its victory march, defeating Lincoln 38 to 10.

GOPHERS, ILLINI SHARE BIG TEN CHAMPIONSHIP

First Crown Worn By Minnesota in 20 Years Of Play

Chicago, March 8.—(AP)—Coaches Dave MacMillan of Minnesota and Doug (Gaga) Mills of Illinois held their first Big Ten basketball championships today and the honors of doing the best coaching jobs during the hard-fought conference season just ended.

The Gophers and the Illini wound up their schedules Saturday night with records of 10 won and two lost, Minnesota trouncing Chicago 33 to 23 as Illinois took Northwestern into camp 32 to 26. In the other finale Michigan whipped Wisconsin 41 to 27.

For Minnesota, it was the first case title in 18 seasons. It was Mac Millan's first in ten seasons.

Mills, who is only 29 years old, won a share of the title in his first season as head coach. The Illini, seldom brilliant but consistently steady, lost to Northwestern in their first game, 47 to 38, and then came back to win six straight before bowing to Purdue.

Illinois record of 447 points scored was the second best offensive of the year, Purdue's 511 points topping the pack. Minnesota allowed opponents only 325 points for the best defensive performance.

The final standings:

W	L	Pct.	TP	OP
Illinois	10	2	.833	447
Minnesota	10	2	.833	418
Michigan	9	3	.750	428

Northwestern	4	8	.333	390
Wisconsin	3	9	.250	363
Iowa	3	9	.250	375
Chicago	0	12	.000	295

Brilliant offensive performances in their final games led John Townsend of Michigan and Mike McMichael of Northwestern tied for second place behind Jewell Young of Purdue in the individual scoring race.

Young scored 172 points for a new all-time season record. Townsend collected 15 points Saturday against Wisconsin to boost his total to 123 points as McMichael was scoring 10 for the same total.

GIANTS TITLE HOPES HINGING ON TERRY'S KNEE

Either He Or Other First Sacker Must Play 75 Games

HAVANA, March 8.—(AP)—Pennant chances of the New York Giants for 1937 hinge on a hinge—Bill Terry's crippled knee.

Unless young Johnny McCarthy or the veteran Sambo Leslie suddenly gets hot and stays that way, Terry will have to hobble back on first to give the Giants the final touch of infield polish and punch they must have to run a winning National League team.

The team shapes up stronger than a year ago, with Pitcher Clyde Clendenen back in great shape and Lou Chiozza on third in place of the withered Travis Jackson, but just the same Terry or a player almost as good must be on the job at first base for at least 75 games.

Terry, who once said he'd never play another ball game, secretly is planning to play as much as or more than his 79 games of 1936, but chances are he'll be lucky to play 25. So far this spring, he has favored his watered knee more than ever.

McCarthy, a $40,000 rookie obtained from the New York Yankee farm at Newark, still appears a year or two away from big time specifications. Leslie, always a good hitter, can't field well enough to suit Terry.

Giants Look Better
Except for the first base problem the Giants look better than they did a year ago at this time. Their hitting has been poor against the high-ly-conditioned Cuban pros, who held them to an average of six hits for the first three exhibition games, but they have better speed and better balance.

Heading the pitching staff and looking just as impressive as ever is Carl Hubbell, who is fairly sure of winning 20 or more games.

Aiding Hubbell on the mound will be Castelman, Freddie Fitzsimmons, Hal Schumacher, Harry Gumbert, and Cliff Melton, a Giant rookie who won 20 games for Baltimore last season. Al Smith and Dick Coffman will be used chiefly for relief and bull pen duty. Schumacher says his bad shoulder has healed.

The outfield regulars shape up as Mel Ott, Hank Leiber and Joe Moore with George Davis and Jimmy Riddle listed for reserve duty.

Chiozza will be at third, Bartel at shortstop, Whitehead at second and either Terry, McCarthy or Leslie at first, with Mickey Haslin and Tommy Thevenow the reservists.

Gus Mancuso will do the catching again with the assistance of probably Roy Spencer and Harry Danning, who held out this year because he wanted the Giants to assure him of more steady employment.

Rumor Lomberg To Succeed Allen At Kansas U. Abroad

Kansas City, March 8.—(AP)—The Star says Arthur C. Lomberg, basketball coach at Northwestern university, will be recommended tomorrow at Topeka to the University of Kansas board of regents as successor to Dr. F. C. (Phog) Allen as director of K. U. athletics.

Lomberg was one of eight men who conferred today with the board of athletics at Lawrence.

$73.73 INVESTMENT IN 1837 GROWS INTO $50,000,000 FARM MACHINERY
ENTERPRISE: HUNDRED YEAR CONCERN STILL DIRECTED BY FOUNDER'S FAMILY

Ten years after John Deere hammered out his first self-scouring steel plow in his Grand Detour, Illinois, smithy, he moved to Moline and established the plow works pictured here. At the top is the present John Deere Plow Works, still in Moline—world's largest plow plant. Inset is a picture of Charles Deere Wiman, great grandson of the founder, and president of Deere & Company, operating eleven great plants and 55 branches, employing around 16,000 persons and producing some 600 items of farm machinery. National celebrations this year are honoring the centennial of John Deere's achievement.

MOBILE, Ill.—How $73.73 plus a frontier blacksmith shop has grown into an internationally famous $50,000,000 farm machinery organization is revealed in connection with the nationwide celebration this year honoring the memory of John Deere and commemorating the 100th anniversary of his steel plow which helped to revolutionize modern agriculture.

The growth of the business John Deere founded is the story of agriculture's development in the past century. Revolutionary improvements in the farmer's tools and mechanization of his labor methods have brought emancipation from back-breaking drudgery while they have greatly increased the individual worker's productivity. To this development John Deere was a prime contributor.

In the village of Grand Detour, Ill., in 1837, John Deere, newly arrived from Vermont with $73.73 in his pockets fashioned his first steel plow from a broken sawmill blade. This achievement in answer to the cry of the settlers for a plow that could cope with the sticky soil of the prairies meant the successful conquest of the west and a new era for agriculture in general.

Deere's plow was an immediate success. After 16 years operation he left Grand Detour and established a plant in Moline, producing 700 plows the first year. From then on the organization enjoyed steady progress, constantly branching out until at the time of Deere's death in 1886 it was producing numerous items of farm machinery.

Today eleven great factories and 55 branch plants employing 16,000 workers in the United States and Canada stand as monuments to Deere and his accomplishments. The organization now manufactures more than 600 products, from tractors to grain elevators, from farm wagons to hayting tools. On millions of farms in the United States and abroad, all the operations of agriculture are performed with implements from its factories.

The death of the organization from 1837 until today has been continuously directed by members of one family—a record held by few enterprises of comparable age and importance. Eight lineal descendants of John Deere are now serving the organization. Charles Deere Wiman, great grandson of the founder, and president since 1923, is the fourth of the family to hold the office.

Washington, Mar. 8 — (AP)—The United States, 20 years after its entry into the World War, is building one of the most scientific fighting machines in its history.

At a cost of nearly a half billion dollars a year, this is what army seeks by 1939:

In men—14,000 regular officers, 165,000 regular troops, 210,000 National Guardsmen, 120,000 reserve officers and 150,000 reserve troops. In airplanes—New planes, all under five years old.

In guns—More and better artillery and machine guns and 8-shot semi-automatic rifles for all troops. In machines—More tanks and substitution of motor and tractor power for animals as far as possible.

This planned army is small in comparison with the 4,000,000 Yankees who donned uniforms a score of years ago and with the forces worried European nations are maintaining.

But military experts say it will be so fast and efficient that its size officially called an "irreducible minimum"—is enough to defend a nation with the geographical advantages of the United States.

Tactics Change
The April 6 anniversary of United States' entrance into the great war will emphasize the difference in tactics that may make this small army so potent. Twenty years ago, millions of men dug into trenches while ponderous war machines butted destructively against each other. The war lasted four years, exhausting the victors as well as the vanquished.

The American army's first post-war step was to expand its general staff to train commanders for a more decisive type of strategy. Division of the nation's forces into four armies and creation of a general headquarters air force followed. Now the revised policy is being applied to personnel and equipment.

Regular officers now number 12,187 and enlisted men 150,305, but the enlisted men will reach the 165,000 goal by July 1. The National Guard strength of 189,173 will reach 200,000 or 10,000 from par on the same date. Expansion of reserves is the big job.

There are 95,000 reserve officers, leaving 25,000 to be recruited from college cadets and civilian camps. Congressional action will be asked.

Dated this 2nd day of March A. D. 1937.
JESSIE H. LEECH, Executrix.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
DAPHNE BRETT, charming young New York advertising executive, rents her deceased father's Connecticut estate to Larry Smith, attractive young bachelor architect, and promptly likes him tremendously. Daphne has one sister, JENNIFER, six years younger, just out of college and at her first job. Jennifer resents Daphne's attempts at guidance and proceeds to date whom she pleases, including TUCKER, a rich, wealthy playboy and former beau of Daphne's. Next Jennifer finds that Larry is not married and she makes a play for his attention. This develops a struggle between the sisters for the same man.

One night Larry dates Daphne. At the same time Daphne refuses Jennifer permission to date Tucker. Daphne spends a thrilling evening with the man she loves. It is so, she returns to her apartment to find Jennifer is gone.

Daphne has been openly defied. She lies awake over the problem. Fails asleep finally. At dawn Jennifer knocks at the door. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XI

DAPHNE stared at the door for a full minute, her feet refusing to obey the command of her brain. She was afraid to open that door. The pounding in the silence of the early morning struck blows of apprehension into her.

At last she reached the door and jerked it open.

"Hi, there! You're a sound sleeper." It was Jennifer, a little less lovely in the gray light. The hem of her white satin gown was soiled. Her hands were blue where they clutched her evening wrap about her shivering shoulders. Her hair was in disarray but her manner was jaunty enough.

Daphne was unable to speak. Her fears turned to swift anger that bubbled up in her throat. Without speaking she turned and went into the bath, started the hot water in the tub. Then she stepped back to the living room and lighted the hearth fire.

"Sit here," she said shortly and drew a chair up before the fire. Jennifer sank into it and waved her chiffon handkerchief airily above her head.

"Thank what I call service. You're a good sport." Daphne had knelt down to take off Jennifer's slippers.

Thass. The word returned to her. She sat back on her heels. "Jennifer," she asked gently, "have you been drinking?"

Jennifer kicked off her slippers and sat up a bit straighter. Her head moved in a gesture Daphne knew too well but her voice was not as brave as she meant it to be.

Mr. Rhinehart, son of the late D. D. Rhinehart, died suddenly at 9 A. M. Tuesday while attending to duties at his farm. He is survived by his wife, Elsie Furman Rhinehart, to whom he was married in 1904; four children, Fred, of Rockford; Ruby, of North Dakota; and Wayne and Murray at home. Two grandchildren and two sisters, Lizzie Taylor of Lakeland, Fla., and Sara Renshaw of New Castle, Ind., four brothers, John, Jacob, Vern and Allison also survive.

The Silver Jubilee Ceremonial of the Camp Fire Girls will be held at the Township high school, at seven-thirty, on the evening of Wednesday, March 17. The Stillman Valley girls have been invited to join the Rochelle groups on this evening. The Council Fire is open to the public.

The Camp Fire Girls program rounds out twenty-five years of service on March 17. Groups were first organized here in 1925.

The new visual aids that have been put into use in the elementary schools, are already proving their worth in the matter of stimulating the interests of children in problems of health and safety education. Arrangements are being made to work out a complete film schedule for geography, history, health, and safety education for the year 1937-1938.

Basketball closed in the graded public school, Saturday, March 6, for both the boys and girls. On two nights each week and on Saturday morning, Delbert Price and Mr. Guio have been conducting a play schedule in basketball. Mrs. Lucile Cain and Miss Garland Lind have carried on a program for the Junior High school girls each Saturday.

was in the air, early in the 17th century, but when Paul V assumed the papacy in 1605, he adopted strict measures to affirm the power of Rome. In Venice, Fra Paolo Sarpi, patriot, scholar, and theologian, upheld the state's supremacy over the church, in daring defiance of the edict from Rome. Sarpi even went so far as to demand toleration of worship for Protestants in Venice, and for this Venice made him state counselor in jurisprudence.

The recognition of excommunicated Sarpi's enemies. One dark night he was attacked by a band of assassins and left for dead. But his wounds healed, and he continued to advance his reforms. Plots against him continued, and he even planned to seek refuge in England. But he remained in his cloister in Venice, intent in the study of science and theology, until he died in 1623, aged 71.

Sarpi's portrait appears on one of the stamps issued by Italy in 1932, for the Dante Alighieri Society.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled.
Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged. Your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Get Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

ocratic Supreme Court decided to withhold announcement of its decision until after the inauguration of President Buchanan, a Democrat, even though this meant a delay of almost five months.
In his inauguration speech, Buchanan announced that he would accept the Supreme Court decision "whatever this may be." Two days later the Court announced, 7-2, in favor of Buchanan's party. It declared the Missouri Compromise unconstitutional and opened the entire west, north as well as south, to slavery.
After Buchanan died there was found in his papers a letter from Justice Grier, who like Buchanan was a Pennsylvanian, informing him on February 23, nine days before inauguration, that the Supreme Court's decision was to favor the Democrats.

PEACE OF MIND

A few pennies spent for a farm telephone and . . . You know you have the fastest two-way communication between your farm and the rest of the world. . . . You don't guess; you get the latest information at its source. . . . You find out when and where the best prices and the best bargains are available. . . . You know that your family and property, yes, and the profits you work for, are protected, too. . . . These are the ways in which the farm telephone contributes to your peace of mind, and your purse as well. . . . And the cost? So little that a small saving or profit often more than pays for your telephone.

SPRING OPENING

Dixon Merchants City-Wide

and Fashion Show

The Greatest Array of Spring Apparel and Footwear Ever Presented to the buying public of this section of Illinois . . . Women, Misses, Children, Men, Young Men and Boys . . . Every Dixon Merchant has searched the great markets to secure the newest fabrics and the latest styles . . . Values, there are values unsurpassed for 1937 offerings, because Dixon merchants' sustained reputation for style plus quality is out-done in this offering of superior values.

A WORD of cheer. A sunny smile. Radiant health, and the zest to work and play with a song in your heart. These are what we wish you for Spring, for these are the things which make life joyous. These are the things which you most want. Spring has come in on the white wings of winter, to scatter the world with beauty and color . . . let us greet it in its first flush of dawn.

Dixon merchants will officially open Spring next Friday and Saturday, March 12th and 13th, with stores filled with new, crisp Spring merchandise, offering an assortment for Easter, merchandise that will gladden the hearts of thousands of Dixon shoppers.

You are invited to come to Dixon. Come early and stay late. Shop in comfort, see merchandise that was selected with precision by hands that know how to sense fineness in fabrics, exquisiteness in workmanship, richness in texture, smartness in style, plus quality and value.

The majority of Dixon merchants will veil their store windows next Thursday at noon and decorate them with all splendor of Spring and then unveil them at 6:30 P. M. brilliantly lighted for your convenience to view Spring in Apparels.

All steps turn toward the Easter Parade. All minds are set on a smart appearance. All hearts are set on being conquered by romance . . . the Easter Parade . . . formal acceptance of Spring.

You can play your role gracefully by being so splendidly dressed that all eyes will turn to you . . . assortment and values so certain that a few dollars will buy many Easter apparels.
